notarize the uncle's signature for the state's required documentation despite knowing that it was a fraudulent representation.

Sometimes the caller would be told that, technically speaking, the clinic was required to report this activity to the state but that if the caller would either lie about her age or just keep her mouth shut when she came in for her abortion, no one would ask any questions. Several times she was told that the facility had no interest in the ages of the parties involved or that they do not verify ages or check IDs and would accept whatever she told them at face value. One employee went so far as to tell her that if she came in with the cash, she could be any age she wanted to be.

In the final analysis, virtually every Planned Parenthood and National Abortion Federation facility Life Dynamics contacted was willing to illegally conceal the sexual abuse of this 13 year old girl.

At some point, the Life Dynamics' caller would raise the possibility that she might not be pregnant and asked whether the clinic would help her get birth control. Over 90% agreed to supply her with birth control and thereby provide the means by which the perpetrator could continue the abuse. Additionally, by providing birth control to a child without reporting might be interpreted as participating in an ongoing or future crime.

From start to finish, the attitudes of the employees Life Dynamics talked to, made it brutally obvious that this is an issue they deal with routinely. In fact, several of them even volunteered that they get calls like this all the time.

In addition to this phone survey and the statistical data mentioned earlier, Life Dynamics has gathered an incredibly large amount of material directly from the abortion industry confirming that they are fully aware of the law which require them to report these instances to the state. In addition, Life Dynamics has admissions by them-in their own materials-that they have rarely complied with these laws in the past and have no intention of complying with them in the future.

Additionally, some Planned Parenthood and National Abortion Federation facilitates actually maintain websites and produce advertising materials telling minor girls that their sexual activity can be covered up by patronizing one of their family planning clinics.

SCHOOLS ARE ACCOMPLICES

It is well known that many of the nation's sixteen thousand school districts allow Planned Parenthood and similar organizations to come on campus and teach Sex-Ed or provide counseling. Many school districts refer their students to these types of family planning organizations, thereby walking dangerously close to being considered an accomplice to the crime against the underage student.

WHAT CAN BE DONE?

In the area of legislation, one possibility is stopping these organizations from receiving state and federal funding. Recipients of these funds are required to use it in accordance with all state and federal laws. Failure to adhere to state and federal law means that funds allocated in past years were obtained fraudulently, and therefore recipients may be forced to return these funds, thus crippling this industry.

As for litigation, the possibilities are nothing less than staggering. First, the number of potential plaintiffs is immense. By their own admissions, Planned Parenthood and the National Abortion Federation have had contact with millions of sexually active underage girls every year for almost three decades and continues to rise by several thousand every day. That fact alone could easily spawn an unimaginable number of individual lawsuits or one of the largest class-action suits in American history.

The Facts About Teen Pregnancy

For several months, Life Dynamics, Inc. had conducted an investigation into the issue of teen pregnancy. What they found can only be described as sickening.

Underage girls, some as young as 10 years old, are being sexually exploited by adult men in numbers that are unprecedented in American history.

According to the most reliable studies, among girls 15 and younger who become pregnant, between 60 and 80% of them are impregnated by adult men. Life Dynamics has also uncovered data showing that as the age of the victim goes down, the age of the perpetrator goes up. In America today, we have reached the point where a junior high school girl is more likely to become pregnant by an adult than by someone close to her own age.

Studies show that the highest rate of sexually transmitted diseases in America is found among females ages 15 to 19, and that the overwhelming majority of these girls contracted these diseases from adult males.

Our country is experiencing an epidemic of child sexual abuse. What's even more disturbing though is the fact that the driving force behind this tragedy is that men who prey on underage girls have powerful national organizations willing to harbor them. There is irrefutable evidence that both Planned Parenthood and the National Abortion Federation—often operating on taxpayer dollars—knowingly conceal these crimes while aiding and abetting the sexual predators who commit them.

THE CRIME

In all 50 states, sexual activity with underage children is illegal. Also, every state mandates that if a healthcare worker has reason to suspect that an underage girl is being sexually abused, they are required by law to report that information to a designated law enforcement or child protective services agency.

Because the pregnancy of an underage girl is evidence that she is the victim of sexual abuse, any healthcare worker who has contact with a pregnant underage girl has an obligation to initiate a report to the state.

THE PROOF

With information now obtained, it is simply undeniable that Planned Parenthood and the National Abortion Federation have made a conscious decision to conceal the sexual exploitation of children and protect the men who commit these crimes.

Life Dynamics has uncovered an overwhelming body of statistical evidence showing that the rate at which these two organizations fail to comply with mandatory reporting laws is in excess of 90%. This data was obtained from government sources, medical journals, independent researchers and the abortion industry itself.

To test this conclusion, Life Dynamics conducted a survey in which they called over 800 Planned Parenthood and National Abortion Federation facilities across the country. Their caller portrayed a 13 year old girl who was pregnant by her 22 year old boyfriend. Her story was that she wanted an abortion because they did not want her parents to find out about the sexual relationship.

In every call, the ages of the girl and her boyfriend were made perfectly clear.

The results of this survey were appalling. Even though many of these clinic workers openly acknowledged to their caller that this situation was illegal and that they were required to report it to the state, the overwhelming majority readily agreed to conceal this illegal sexual activity.

Some employees of these organizations even coached their caller on how to avoid detection, how to circumvent parental involvement laws and what to say or not say when she came to the clinic. In a significant number of instances she was encouraged to lie about-or conceal-her age or her boyfriend's age or to give false names.

One of the clinic representatives who acknowledged that she was required by state law to inform at least one of the caller's parents in writing that their daughter was seeking an abortion, went on to advise their caller that the best way to hide this from her parents was to use a fictitious address when she checked in for her abortion.

During these calls, it was not uncommon for the Planned Parenthood or National Abortion Federation representative to warn their caller that if someone were to find out about this situation, her boyfriend could go to jail. It was also not uncommon for the employee to interrupt their caller when she started talking about her age or the age of her boyfriend.

In other calls, the facility employee advised their caller that she had already provided too much information for them to be able to help her. In those instances, she would often be given the number of another family planning facility and encouraged to tell a different story when she called there. At times, this advice was quite specific, with the employee telling her exactly what to say-or not say-to the people she talked to at the second facility.

In states requiring that parents be informed when their underage daughters seek abortions, the law allows those girls to have abortions without their parents being notified if they get permission from a state judge. This is called a judicial bypass.

During their calls to states with parental involvement legislation in place, the Life Dynamics' caller was often informed about this option while also being instructed not to voluntarily tell the judge about the age of her boyfriend. In some instances these employees even encouraged her to lie to the judge if specifically asked for that information. Others advised her that neighboring states have no parental involvement requirements and that if she went there and either concealed or lied about the age issue, she would have no problem getting a secret abortion.

In some calls, she was given instructions on how to circumvent the parental involvement requirement altogether, even to the point of suggesting that she bring someone along to sign for her who looked old enough to impersonate one of her parents. In one particularly egregious case, the clinic worker lamented the fact that because their caller's boyfriend was only 22, he wouldn't look old enough to pass as her father. She went on to suggest that their caller look for an older person to help her out. When the caller said her boyfriend has a 50 year old uncle who would do it, the employee said that would be okay as long as the uncle didn't say anything while at the clinic to indicate he was not really her father. The employee stated that the uncle could even drop by, sign the papers and leave before she actually came in for the abortion and that the clinic's notary public would
